

Ice Te:

The SNOWFLAKE

Winter's Secret Beauty

ing through the snow

Peace on

MERRY SNOWSTORMS

THE

DOOR

THE Holiday Season EDITION

Test by Kenneth Libbrecht
Photography by Patricia Rasmussen

er Winter Winter Winter Winter Y

15. INDEFINITE
- (A) unlit
 - (B) free
 - (C) inflated
 - (D) undefinable
 - (E) tireless
16. TOXIC
- (A) void
 - (B) free
 - (C) poisonous
 - (D) concealing
 - (E) hidden
17. MALICIOUS
- (A) odorous
 - (B) spiteful
 - (C) inedible
 - (D) atypical
 - (E) hungry

- 22
- (A) friendly
 - (B) fiery
 - (C) unintellectual
 - (D) casual
 - (E) truculent
23. AMBULATORY
- (A) injured
 - (B) walking
 - (C) conservative
 - (D) scientific
 - (E) medical
24. ANTITHESIS
- (A) control
 - (B) formula
 - (C) statement
 - (D) similarity
 - (E) opposite

25

26

3

3

3 dashing through the snow

Recent News:

In the heart of our nation lies a secret society who are now going public. Their names... The Cloud Interpreters!! They have seized the national potato chip that is supposedly shaped like Abraham Lincoln's head and are holding it for ransom. Their only request is to speak with the president who has secretly gone into hiding for fear of an attack on the Whitehouse. Any information on this secret society and its location pleas call 1-800-NONEXITSTENT. We will keep you posted on this horrible situation.

New iPod; Too Small?

Apple announced yesterday that it is planning to start the mass production of its newest iPod since the iPod video. They say it will make break throughs in today's technology. They estimate they will have sold 3 billion by March of 2006. The president of Apple held a press conference at the Apple media center on Tuesday. He said that the new iPod will be ridiculously small and will hold as many songs as you want. Apple has decided to refresh their look by making the iPods round and quite heavy. This idea holds true. At the conference, Apple revealed their newest edition to the iPod family. At first it seemed invisible, but after a closer look it still could not be seen. The media manager announced the iPod was too small for the naked eye to see. Apple passed out three of the new iPods to three critics who each had a very different opinion on them. "The new iPod is quite useless. I mean, how can you use something that can't be seen and weighs 500 pounds?," says Bill B. Billy, one of the critics. However, Apple will be selling not-lost tags which beep persistently when the iPod is not in the hands consumer's hand, so make sure to bring your earmuffs when you take your next trip to the Apple store.

- (C) ... bacterium
- (D) ... amphibian

I hate everything about Christmas, even the Hoohash

Don't Be Katin'

Humbug!!

Lost Mountaineers Found In Himalayas Surrounded By Giant Footprints

Last month, four hikers started a nice little trek into the Himalayas, for no reason in particular. Experts say that their reason was to get out of their house. After two months over the planned return date, a search and rescue mission was immediately put into action to find the four missing mountaineers. The locals say it was the abdominal snowman due to their million year old stories of a giant snowman terrorizing the village. The elder in the village was sought out by the search and rescue squad and asked to lead them to the abdominal snowman's cottage. After two days of searching and one death (due to third degree burns) the team discovered a footprint that was four feet in diameter. It is said to have been a trail of 50 million, I wouldn't want to be on that hike! The elder urged the search and rescue team to go on while he stayed and watched the footprint.. Ten hours later the search and rescue team had to be searched for and rescued. Later they informed media that they had caught sight of the legendary cottage if the abdominal snowman, and then were simply attacked by the monster with no mercy. A week ago, the same search and rescue team started their mission for a second time to save the mountaineers. They were the same team except for a few lost limbs here and there. This time they interrogated the elder to find the one true weakness. The elder spoke few words but said that the abdominal snowman hated a dirty house. The squad came upon the abdominal snowman's cottage once more and went in and destroyed everything. They found the four mountaineers and ran all the way home.

The abdominal snowman is now suing the search and rescue team for unexcused trespassing of private property, and so far, the only thing we are authorized to say is that the abdominal snowman cannot fit into the court house.

President Bush Makes A Right Decision

Many people have questioned Bush's ability to govern the United States correctly. He has made so many wrong decisions, that some are starting to spread rumor of impeachment. But, when polls rating Bush were about to drop down to zero, he made a right decision, that put decreasing support for the president on reverse. We know this may be quite shocking for some of you anti-Bush readers, but believe us; we almost fainted when we heard the news. Instead of wasting a billion more dollars or so on rebuilding Iraq, Bush has spent that money on ordering 800 more million sold out X-box 360's to be manufactured and sold in every store available. The public has created an absurd amount of public support for this decision. Congress also has support for this decision, and is now passing a law that will legalize the building of a 324.7 foot tall X-box 360 and will also commission the founding of X-box day in which people will reflect and honor Bush's decision. It is rumored to be replacing Veterans Day. It seems the American public has finally come to a pathetic stop in the use of common sense. X-box incorporated are greatly proud of the president's decision and have announced that they are gladly installing an X-box 360 in every nook and cranny of the white house, for free. Please, for the well being of our country, oppose Bush's decision with every ounce of your energy. THANK YOU!!

Selective Apetitus Is At An All Time High

Mary Loo of Weeping Water, Nebraska noticed one day that her child would not eat asparagus. She thought it was no big deal, and that most children would not eat asparagus, so she tried to feed him ice-cream, a treat that almost every child likes. When he did not eat it Mary became worried and took her child to the local pediatric facility. The doctor diagnosed her child with a bad case of selective apetitus.

Children, over the years have experiencing worse and worse cases of selective apetitus, but in today's world it is at an all time high. Children everywhere are, more than ever, very picky. In fact, the number of children that have high cases of selective apetitus is so high that the United States Health Department announced, yesterday, that will be considered a pandemic and that all people take caution. Because risk of death is high for many of the children facing bad cases of selective apetitus, the United States Health Department has been working with top scientists to discover a cure and decide whether the illness is contagious or not. At the press conference held yesterday, the United States Health Department stated that the illness is, in fact, contagious and that it will be issuing vaccine shots at most local hospitals. The vaccine works by enlarging the patient's larynx and stomach so more sizes of food will be able to be ingested by the victim. The vaccine also permanently numbs taste buds, so the victim is more flexible with different varieties of tastes.

The DQ
Rainstorm

The Wonderful World of Eeeeliiiiiza

Welcome Eeeeliiiiiza, I hope that nick name doesn't offend you.

No it doesn't, but wouldn't it be horrible if someone fell off a 300 foot cliff?

Ya, uh-ha. Now what is your favorite color?

Well, I would have to say blue because it seems calm, and I look good in it, and it is the color of the ocean and—

Excuse me for interrupting, but we don't have all day, what is your favorite building material, besides my head?

I think brick because I just absolutely adore the reddish color of it. Ooh, don't you just love the color of them on the old apartment in Boston, what are they called...?

Ah, brownstones.

Oh yah, I love those because—

Third question, what is your favorite accessory?

Oh, um, I'd have to say...well, do you mean a necklace or a bag, or what? Anything.

I would say... a pillow because it's comfortable and I can sit on it. One time—

What is your favorite book?

Right now I'm reading this really good book that Sophie lent me, but my all-time favorite book, of all time, is the Phantom Toll Booth because it has interesting wording, and ooh, it's interesting, and it also makes you look at things in different ways.

What do you want to be when you grow up? In other words—

Oh, I love this question. I want to be a teacher or an actress. I haven't decided yet. But I can honestly say—

What is your favorite subject?

History, because one gets to see what happens before!! And it's always different.

What is your favorite type of shoe?

Well, a clog. I have a really cool motto for it: clogs are easy to slip on and off, and are really comfortable. That reminds me of the time when—

Why do you like the DQ?

Because it's interesting, clever and fun to read. I like reading a lot because it brings me into different situations.

What is your favorite shape?

A circle because it has no beginning, no corners, and no center (???) just like a—

What is the most important quality that an enemy can have?

I would have to say... stupidity because then I can win!!

What do you like to do in your free time?

Read, read, read, read, read, read, and...ah...read!

How do you view yourself?

Very smart and very, very attractive

Who is your favorite family member?

I have to say...not applicable, but if I was hard pressed, I would say Dylan because he doesn't judge me like these judging faces around me.

What is your favorite flower?

long head

red 4 after in

- preschool recaps group tour Europe
Eliza's Interview clouds will bring lies y

A sweet pea because it is delicate. My favorite flower is definitely not a rose.
What is your favorite bean?
It's a black bean because it's black...(yawn)... are we almost done?
Yes. What is your favorite invention?
Electricity because I never realized how useful it was until I didn't have it.
What is your favorite type of furniture?
A bed sounds nice right now.
What would you say if someone called you a chatterbox?
Umm...hey! Come here!
(at this point Eeeceeliiza tackled the interviewer)

Eliza's Interview cont.

new congress
did never too microwse for want

What not to do with Macaroni and Cheese:

- * Put it in your Secret Santa's mailbox
- * Use it to glue your sibling's feet to the ground
- * Mix it with baking powder (no, don't even try it!!!)
- * Freeze it and use it as snowboard
- * Use for saxophone cork wax
- * Stick it up your nose
- * Use as toilet seat wax
- * Put it in your teacher's chair
- * Give it to your dog
- * Drink it
- * Brush your teeth with it (especially if you have braces)
- * Look at it under a microscope for 30 minutes of your life
- * Analyze it
- * Interview it
- * Use it as a pillow
- * Put it in Tupperware® for 5 days in the sun, then open and inhale
- * Hide it in Mr. Mosher's pencil sharpener
- * Include it in a greeting card
- * Seal envelope with it
- * Ship it by U.S. mail (they'll confiscate it)
- * Make a necklace out of it and give it to your mother for Mother's Day
- * Use in the tub is a Loofah sponge
- * Mash it up and use on hair

-NY&N,
-cheesecake man
-Harry Potter movie review

Article Six: Comparing Different Points of View. Topic:
Warner Brothers' Newest Masterpiece, Kairy Panter
and the Goblet of Fur

Reviewer 2, Mrs. G. Schnapps: "Well, nobody told me it was gonna be a sequel!
Ah jus' thought it was a'gonna be a reg'lar ol' movie, ya' know, like we here home in ol' 'Bama see all the time on the tube."

Reviewer 3, Ms. Bob Blob: "Well, nobody said it was to be an actual production. You see, many critics do not realize the truly heart-wrenching experience we are to take upon viewing this sad, sad, story. Sniff, sniff. The book was much...more...optimistic!" (At this point, Ms. Blob breaks down and sobs. Poor Ms. Blob. She then hollers at our persistent DQ notetaker who is taking down this whole scene and then she scribbles on this page which is why it is now practically illegible.)

Reviewer 6, Mr. Intel Actual: "Today, I will be giving a lecture on my own simplified version formation of forensic hypotheses in the presence of boiling nitroglycerin. When you find any piece of evidence at all, you must first throw it into the "Boil-o-Glycerin," like I just did here, and let it simmer for about a week or two. Then, you must - where are you all going? It's just a little steam..." (Our sympathy presently goes out to our good friend, Mr. Intel Actual, who, currently, is partially dismembered. He will remain at Hillsboro Hospital, his fate yet unknown.)

Lesson Eight: The Effectiveness of ""

Last night, while everyone in the western hemisphere was sleeping all snug in their beds, a creature was stirring. And it wasn't a mouse. IT WAS A VOLE!!!
(which is pretty much the same thing) Actually, it was Frederick A. Vole, to be precise. He has recently discovered the enormous and miraculous discovery of the effectiveness of ""! And it is ginormous. We have found the effects of this effectiveness to be thoroughly effective, but that is besides the point. The point is that students are now using 23% more "" than they did in the medieval times. That's almost per cent! That's a lot of copper. But anyway, please do not worry or fuss, because we do have a lot more in store for you. And that is what's coming up next. Please stay in touch.

Haven't seen faces around Please judging
no applicable
by Ism desire flower ya ste ie with eggs fish back do

-to

later -> chatter pillow - can sit on my set

my seed

to

-gr